

Information Security:

What is Information Security?

Information Security involves the policies, practices and procedures required to maintain & provide assurance of the confidentiality, integrity & availability of information.

Why study Information Security?

This program provides education in this highly sought-after field by integrating all elements of information security eg. programming, electronic data security, passwords and ICT engineering.

What will I study?

- Network and operating systems principles
- Electronic data application and security
- Analysis, design and implementation of information security for business
- Electronic commerce, cryptology and coding
- Intelligence & national security

Where are the jobs in Information Security?

The demand for Information Security is at an all time high from:

- Government departments & finance/banking industry